

SULZER ARRAIGNS IDEA OF SOCIALISM

Speaks Before Railroad Men at Terminal Banquet.

HE DISAGREES WITH KNAPP

Chairman of Interstate Commerce Commission Pleads for Social and Industrial Co-operation, but New York Representative Urges Preservation of Individuality.

Before a gathering of more than 300 railroad men last night at the second annual banquet of Terminal Y. M. C. A.
Representative William Sulzer, of New York, bitterly denounced the principles of socialism and urged the preservation of individuality as opposed to centralization, declaring that socialism meant retrogression.

Mr. Sulzer was the second speaker of the evening, and he drew his remarks from the address of Chairman Knapp, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, who was the speaker of the evening. Mr.
Knapp pleaded for social and industrial co-operation as the need of the age, and it was the advocacy of these principles that the New York Representative took exception.

Meaning of Socialism.

"The great man of the Interstate Commerce Commission," said Mr. Sulzer, "has advocated co-operation in industrial and social life, but I am opposed to the idea as meant in his remarks."

"Co-operation means centralization, and centralization means socialism, and socialism means death to progress and retrogression of all human achievements."

"I am not a socialist, but I am an individualist. I would preserve the identity of the individual at all hazards. I do not want to see the identity of the individual lost in co-operation. I would not have all men on a dead level, for that is what socialism would have. I would have each man stand distinct, forging ahead, in competition of the other, and all trying to press forward, in a righteous way, to the goal of human aspiration."

Tribute to Commission.

Then Mr. Sulzer turned his attention to the work of the Interstate Commerce Commission and paid a high tribute to its members, and declared that it was one of the most significant government agencies.

In opposing Judge Knapp's advocacy of co-operation, Mr. Sulzer explained that he accepted the word in the sense of bringing together industrial and social forces as the first speaker had indicated.
"But," he remarked, "if, by the use of the word you mean co-operation in the principles as embodied in the sermon on the Mount, then I am for co-operation; but if you mean a co-operation to an end of a few controlling the many, a few governing all, and a few owning all the wealth, then I am opposed to co-operation."

Mr. Knapp made a few remarks about holding a place of "questionable" respectability, and then launched out in a laudatory speech of the railroad men of the country, declaring that no other class of men were doing more to contribute to the progress of mankind than were the builders and operators of railroads.

Depends on Transportation.
"The opportunity and progress of man depends upon conveyance and transportation," said Mr. Knapp, "and the greatest progress of humanity has followed the trail of the steam engine. There must come an end to this social and industrial warfare that is going on, and it can only be brought about by cooperation. There must be a closer affiliation of interests, and though some may try to build up legal barriers, nothing will be able to stop the federation of progress that must come with a closer co-operation."

C. W. Galloway, superintendent of transportation of the Baltimore and Ohio, made a few remarks. He said the public and the railroads were beginning to understand each other better.
Others who made brief addresses in which the Y. M. C. A. was praised for its wonderful work were G. O. Smith, president of the Y. M. C. A.; H. O. Williams, W. K. Cooper, A. M. Keppel, S.
C. McElroy, George H. Maries, and J. M.
Rice. The banquet was held in the large social room and the Y. M. C. A. parlors, which were decorated in flags, palms, and cut flowers.

Republican Smoker Postponed.
The New York State Club was to have held a smoker last night at their club rooms in the Union Trust Building.
Owing to bad weather, few members appeared, and it was decided to postpone the entertainment. The meeting adjourned about 9 o'clock.

Y. M. C. A. Minstrel Show To-night.
Many minstrels of the Y. M. C. A. will give a show consisting of songs, jokes, monologues, sketches, and acrobatics in the men's gymnasium of the association building to-night.

TWO BEATEN UP.

One Man Removed to Hospital and Other Locked Up.

John V. B. Sherwood, thirty-two years old, was beaten over the head with a baton by Policeman S. B. Klienendest, of the Fourth precinct, while resisting arrest for disorderly conduct last night in Annapolis court. Sherwood was taken to the Emergency Hospital for treatment.
Klienendest was attracted by the loud disturbance Sherwood was creating in the court. When the officer placed him under arrest Sherwood struck at him.
After a brief scuffle the officer laid him out with his baton.
Sherwood sustained an ugly scalp wound.

At Third street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest Thomas Moran, thirty-five years old, was arrested for disorderly conduct. Moran was being carried to the police box under arrest by Policeman B. H.
Borewell, of the Sixth precinct station.
Moran struck at Borewell in an effort to break loose. A rough and tumble fight followed.
Moran struck the officer in the face several times and tore his uniform, but Moran was overpowered. He was locked up at the Sixth precinct station.

STRANDED IN ALASKA.

Government Asked to Aid Monteg-grin Laborers.

Just what to do with 250 Monteggrin laborers who were imported into Alaska months ago, and who are out of work and facing starvation at Cordova, Alaska, is puzzling most of the government departments. Word was received by Gov.
Clark, of Alaska yesterday, that the Monteggrins threaten trouble.
Investigation of the Department of State brought no relief; the Secretary of War could do nothing; the Department of Justice was powerless and the Secretary of the Interior could not interfere.
Gov. Clark has telegraphed for more details.

"WHEN A MAN MARRIES."

Popular Novel to Appear Serially in The Washington Herald.

The Washington Herald will shortly begin the serial publication of Mary Robert's Rinehart's popular novel,
"When a Man Marries."

For months this novel has been the best selling book in America.
It has pleased thousands upon thousands of readers.
Mrs. Rinehart has gained the position of premier writer of mystery stories.

By adding humor to mystery in "When a Man Marries" she has made a unique place for herself in American literature.
In this story the element of humor runs over and becomes fairly elementary.

It was from "When a Man Marries" that the play, "Seven Days," was made, and it proved the biggest farce hit that has struck Broadway in twenty years.

Readers of The Washington Herald will find in Mrs. Rinehart's charming tale the most pleasing newspaper diversion they have ever had. It will be printed from day to day, beginning on June 15, and no lover of good fiction can afford to miss a chapter of it.

Remember the date of the first installment—Wednesday, June 15.
Leave your order for the paper now if you are not already a regular subscriber, or tell your news dealer to save this issue for you.

Cyclist's Leg Broken.
Thomas H. Sothers, thirty-five years old, living at 1905 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, fell from his bicycle at noon yesterday at Eighth and H streets northeast, sustaining a broken leg. He was taken to the Casualty Hospital for treatment.

BUSINESS MEN ASK CLERKS TO UNITE

Will Hold Big Meeting in Interests of Co-operation.

At a general meeting of business men and clerks of the departments, held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms yesterday, steps were taken to hold a gathering of all those interested in the movement in behalf of government clerks, and a committee was provided for the necessary action at the Capitol to insure a hearing there.

The whole subject was discussed for some time in an informal manner, and the fact developed that a considerable difference of opinion exists among the clerks and others as to what should be done in behalf of those who have been discharged from the service, as well as regards the proposed retirement fund.

The business men took the stand that if anything worth while is to be accomplished it will be necessary for all to be united in a practically course to pursue. To this end the meeting scheduled for to-morrow night at the old Masonic Temple was by motion postponed to next Thursday night at 8 o'clock, with a view to giving it wider publicity, to give time to secure speakers, and to give the movement greater impulse than could be done on the short time intervening between yesterday and to-morrow night.

An effort will be made to secure a large attendance of government clerks at this meeting, especially those who have divergent views regarding pensions and means to assist the government employees in the hope that a workable plan can be developed to bring all views into unison.

Louis P. Shoemaker, chairman of the business men's organization, said after the meeting yesterday that the minor details of the proposed meeting would be worked out to-day, and that appropriate committees would be appointed, including a reception committee, to be in attendance to receive those who may attend.

BACK AFTER CANAL SHOW.

New Orleans Man Will Keep in Touch with Congress.

T. "Panama" Thompson, special agent of New Orleans, came to Washington again yesterday to keep tab on the Congressional committee having the Panama Canal Exposition in charge.
"New Orleans Congress to approve her claims as the most logical point," said Mr. Thompson. "We are putting up $4,000,000 now, and possibly more later. It is a case where the whole state pleads its interest in the canal by imposing a direct tax upon itself."

CONTRIBUTORY RETIREMENT PLAN

Reply to Wife of Department Employee.

By HERBERT D. BROWN.

In your paper of June 6 objections are brought against the proposed retirement plan by the wife of a department employee, in which she makes reference to as having been instrumental in bringing forward the plan favorably reported by the House committee, and says:
"Will Mr. Brown publicly state his private opinion as to whether he or any true American wants a self-constituted guardian to dictate the disposal of his personal earnings or private affairs?"

No, I do not, theoretically, want to be dictated to in the matter of my private affairs. And yet I submit to it, as does every good citizen, not only willingly, but gladly.
I do not think the army, the navy, the police, the postoffice, the penitentiary, or the madhouse ideal institutions, but in our present state of society they seem to be as necessary as I think a compulsory savings scheme is for civil employees, and they are generally regarded as beneficent institutions, and we all pay taxes to help maintain them.

I have stated, both publicly and privately, that, theoretically, there is nothing to be said in favor of forcing a man to save his money—nothing except the statement that as a member of society he is under obligation to so conduct himself as not to be a burden on the rest of society. Since the possibility is recognized of his making a claim on society, then society has some right to dictate what he shall do with his money.
I defined my position in this matter, to the best of my ability, two years ago in an address at the biennial meeting of the National Assembly of Civil Service Commissioners, held at Chicago, when I said this:

"Personally, I feel that the ideal plan of retirement for civil service employees should be a compulsory savings plan, in which a government willing to pay values large enough to attract the best talent and to retain it, should also be willing to pay by something for the individual employee, and, second, by a compulsory and automatic deduction from salary to be made of a certain percentage of the salary, and the money so deducted to be placed in a fund to be distributed to the employee at the time of his retirement. In other words, we are confronted by a condition and not a theory."

What is the condition which confronts us? A two-horned dilemma. On the one hand, a civil service made inefficient—or at least below the highest standard of efficiency—by the presence of the presence of many aged and infirm employees no longer able to do a full day's work. That is a wrong which affects us all, for the people, the taxpayers and citizens of this country, constitute the government. It is not something that concerns only a few heads of departments here in Washington or only the leaders of the national political party. It is a wrong that bears on every man, woman, and child listed by the census-taker, and its continuance means grave and persistent injury to the ideal of good government in every part of the country.

On the other hand, if that abuse is corrected by the elimination of all the old and unfit from the public service, injustice is done to many faithful public servants whose only fault is that of old age. They are thrust out of office at the very time when they most need the certain emoluments of office, and one does not have to live long in Washington to realize keenly the cruelty and tragedy of such situations.

What scheme can be devised in justice to both the public and the public servant that will solve the problem for both?
There are only two general classes of plans possible: (1) Either some form of civil pension requiring that the retiring allowance be paid out of the Federal Treasury, in other words out of taxes collected indirectly by the national government from people all over the country; or (2) some form of general fund providing that retiring allowances be paid for by contributions from the employees' salaries.

The wife of the civil employee writing to The Washington Herald would evidently solve the problem by establishing a civil pension, for she says: "If it

VISITOR LOSES $458 FLIPPING QUARTERS

Police Seek Three Confidence Men as Robbers.

Clarence Davis, of Glen Allen, Va., who has been spending a few days on a pleasure trip in Washington, was the victim of an old bunco game yesterday afternoon, when three men with whom he had been matching quarters relieved him of $458.

Davis reported his loss to the police yesterday afternoon. He said he fell in with them when they showed signs of friendliness, and after some slighting and amusement, one of them suggested that they go to a hotel. The party spent some time in a room, where they matched quarters part of the time to pass away the hours. Davis claims the strangers tricked him and disappeared.
One is about five feet nine inches tall, about twenty-seven years old, wore a light suit and straw hat, has dark hair and eyes, and a smooth face; another is five feet four inches tall, weighs about 135 pounds, had on a blue suit, straw hat with turn-up brim, and has three fingers missing from the left hand. The last is five feet six inches tall, about thirty-five years old, red hair and florid complexion, tawny brown raincoat, and black derby hat.

CARPENTERS REMAIN OUT.

Builders Say They Will Employ Nonunion Men.

Up to a late hour last night no agreement had been effected between the Builders' League and the Brotherhood of Carpenters, which declared a strike Monday. The builders say they will institute open shops and secure nonunion carpenters before they will accede to the demands which the carpenters threaten the builders will be unable to secure reliable workmen, and state they refuse even to consider a compromise. They claim all striking carpenters have been debarred employment by builders not affiliated with the league. About 100 men are out.
